It appears that there has been a very great uniformity in the aggregate movement of this institution and hypothese.

branches. There has been no material increase in any department.

The banks of Virginia make semi-annual reports, and we doubt if the banks of any other State in the Union maintain a greater regularity in their operations, and more uniformity in the aggregate movement, than those of Virginia. It is true they have not those facilities for engaging in the speculative movements of the day that the banks of this and other large cities have. Confined almost exclusively to the business in their immediate vicinity, they are regulated by the movements of those engaged in trade and commerce immediately around them. Where there are no strong temptations to engage in speculations, there is not that necessity for frequent reports that exist in places of more importance. However, there is no danger of the banks in any part of the country repeating their returns too often for the interests of the stockholders and those depending upon them for commercial facilities.

The returns of the Georgia banks this year, so far as received, show but a very moderate variation movement, compared with former years. We annex the report of the Bank of Brunswick for April, 1845, compared with October, 1845:—

The loans and discounts have been reduced nearly fifty per cent within the past year. Of the discounts, on the 11th of April, 1846, $10,307 were considered good; $26,429 under protest and in suit; $1,011 under protest and not in suit; $8,577 lying over and not in suit. Balance in bends of the city of Savannah, bearing seven per cent interest, $63,000. The total cost of the railroad including de ots and motive power, and including ex-penses of transportation and repairs since last Decem-ber, is $3,615,840. year, cf $125,302. This is a greater reduction than anticipeted, and induces us to believe that the whole debt wish to liquidated more rapidly and much sooner than expected it was estimated when the reports for April, 1845, was made out, that the entire debt would be extinguished by the first of December, 1848. There is at present every probability of the debt being paid by April, 1848, six months sooner than anticipated. The benk and railroad can pay at least three hundred thousand dollars per annum. The railroad receipts are rapidly increasing. The railroad and bank profits since December, 1845, a period of four months, amounted to $123,077, equal to $366,231 for the year. The whole concern appears to be in a very flourishing condition, and likely to rapidly increase in preductiveness.

Congress.

Both Houses stand adjourned over to Monday next. The Senate, to-day, passed to a third reading, Mr. Speight's bill, granting alternate sections of land to the Mississippi Railroad; and the Michigan bill, granting upwards of a million of acres for her canal and railroad, was finally passed. The Smithsonian bill was reterred to a select committee, with Mr. Dix at the head of it. We expect he will take good care to see that it is not shoved out of the way this time. Judge Tappan, the reporter of the original bill has been lobbying it, for this darling scheme of his, for some time past. The old Judge has quite a taste for ornithology, entimology, conchology, and all the other scientific clogies. We called at his room one day, during the last Congress, and found him classifying a variety of bivalves, univalves, and mollusca of different sorts, with all the gravity of Baron Cuvier. He has quite a taste in that way. There was a spicy discussion in the Senste, this morning, upon a motion looking to the printing of a certain treasury compilation, by Dr. Mayo. But the project was laid out as cold as a corpse. The thanks of the country are due to Senator Breese for the motion to adjourn over; to Monday. Breese is a man of sound sense and alce discrimination. He knows, exactly, when to move for the good of all concerned. We like the man.

The House met early in the morning, and adjourned over to Monday, in order to give time for the exchange of the winter carpets for the summer matting; and the general cleaning and ventilation of the hall. We shall, therefore, take a look, perhaps, among the fisheries in the Potomac to-morrow.

Washington, April 30, 1846.

We had a rumor here to-day, that Gen Taylor has been attacked by the Mexican forces, and defeated with a loss of 700 men. Little credit, however, has been given to it by the general mass of the community. For my part, I am prepared to believe every rumor of the kind that comes from the army of oc-cupation, for it is nothing more than what we might expect from that quarter at any moment, as matters stand there at this time. There is one thing, cupation, for it is nothing more than what we might expect from that quarter at any moment, as matters stand there at this time. There is one thing, however, that is nearly next to a certainty; and that is, that rumors of this sort seldom or ever arise without a sufficient cause; and the reason why such unfortunate results, if they happen at all, are kept a secret from the country, is better known to President Polk and his Secretary of War than to any one else. Be the rumor true or talse, of one thing I am certain, for I speak upon the best authority, and that is, that the Secretary of War is in possession of letters from Gen. Taylor, the contents of which he will not now make public. Why, therefore, this secrecy about the movements of our army? Why conceal from the country its condition and its dangers? Is it lest the bungling conduct of the men who have assumed hitherto, its sole direction, without hardly consulting the commander-in-chief of the United States forces—Gen. Scott—upon subjects connected with it, has led to disasters which would not have happened to it had the head of the war department pursued a more liberal and enlightened line of conduct towards military men of experience and judgment, instead of directing these matters himself. I believe, but hope not, that our army has been beaten by the Mexican forces, and that the reluctance of Mr. Marcy to make known the contents of the despatches, that he received a day or two since from the South, is, lest his blunders become known to the public, before some fortunate and successful movement of Gen. Taylor, over the enemy, change the aspect of things in his two. The yellow fever has broken out at the Island of Sacrificios, the anchoring ground of the American navy in the harbor of Vera Cruz. Should this malignant disease get a footing among on brave tars, there will be little left for the Mexicans to do when they choose to visit the remainder of them, under cover of the gues of San Juan d'ellies. Between the Secretaries of War and the Navy, both arms of precise ratio of the interest they receive from the oertificates of five per cent stocks deposited with the Secretary of the Treasury, and purchased with the money for which they are left in his hands as security.

To some gentlemen here, this traffic has been one of great profit, since they were permitted by Mr. Walker to hold not only half a million of this money, but also all the appropriations of all the public departments. Those money merchants are required to pay all government draits in gold, but to-day being pay day with all the government cleiks, they were more disposed to pay out paper to those who were willing to take it, than Col. Benton's mind drops. The intention of government in paying its clerks in gold, is to give that beautiful currency a monthly circulation as large as possible; so that it may enter into the circulating medium of the country in as great a proportion as possible. For this purpose it is brought on here from the mint at Philadelphia, but by the hocus pocus of paying out paper instead of it, the intentions of the law are defective, and the worthless rags of town and country corporations are set affoat, instead of the national currency. I call, therefore, once more upon Congress to do one of two things, forthwith, with the surplus revenue of $11,000,000 in the Treasury. Either pay off as much of the nationaldebt with this surplus, as far as it will go, or purchase peace and good will with it of our neighbors, the Mexicans, inconsideration of the large tracts of their country which may fall into our hands by the settlement o, the southern boundary of Texas. If Congress should not do either of these things, then it would be far hetter for them to keep the revenue in their mints and oustom houses, than pay enormous sums, annually, as interest to the banks and bankers, merely for the purpose of changing Uncle Sam's gold eagles into paper hites, to be deposited with the Secretary of the Treasury. This is the correct state of case, and I don't think the promise of Mr. Lewis, that the sp

State.

New Obleans, April 23, 1846, 124 o'clock.

The greatest anxiety is beginning to be felt in consequence of the non-arrival of the news by the Unicernand business is materially affected by it. It was currently reported yesterday, that the news was in town, in the hands of cotton speculators; and from the extensive business done in cotton, it was very generally conducted. The sales reached fully 7,500 bales, at a slight decrease in rates, say jo per pound, although holder are unwilling to admit that the reduction was so great as that. The non-arrival of the news, by mail, this morning, proves that yesterday's rumor was groundless. The sales to day, up to the present hour, have reached about 1200 bales, at yesterday's prices; and from present indications, I have no doubt they will amount to 3000 before business is over. Money is rather tight, and there is considerable paper floating about in the streets. The Galvaston arrived from Twass yesterday, but did not bring a single item of news of interest; by Sunday we shall have another arrival. The news of the New York election reached us this morning, and cause, something of a sit among the whigs.

Blitz and Valentine are doing a splendid business a the St Charles Theatre, and were to close to-night, but their success has been so great that they have determined to remain longer. The business at the Frenct Theatre is rather falling off, although on the nights "The Martyre" are performed, the houses are full.
